

ASKS "SOUL MATE" IF HIS WIFE TO PAY HIM $50,000

Capt. Charles B. Stoddard Sues Rich Builder Hermann, of Borough Park, for 'Alienation,' and Wife Sues Rest of Family on Slander Charge.

Soul mates that soared alone for ages through multitudinous existences and came together with a smack as stenographer and employer and then soured, according to the statement of one of them, is the story that to-day is shaking Borough Park, Brooklyn, where the terrestrial scenes of the singular affair are laid.

Four suits in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn have just come to knock the romance out of the highly aired tale of affinities, which in some respects parallels the recent Ferdinand Pinney Earle and Julia Kuttler romance.

Charles B. Stoddard, a mate on the ward line steamer Vigilancia, has sued George J. Hermann, a real estate broker and builder who has made a fortune in establishing Newlynweds in homes, for $50,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Mrs. Ella St. Claire Stoddard.

Mrs. Stoddard has sued Mrs. Hermann and her son and her husband's sister, Miss Laura Hermann, for $10,000 for alleged slander.

Mrs. Stoddard was given to dreams in her youth—and she is only thirty now, and also she is small and pretty and bright—and longed for the time when her soul's true partner should come before her. Along came Stoddard, up in Wood Harbor, N. S., where the girl lived. She thought he was her affinity, and they were married.

A little over a year ago in Borough Park Mrs. Stoddard's baby died. Her husband was away from home nearly all the time on his ship. The little woman was lonely. Her doctor told her to seek employment, which she did, finding work with Mr. Hermann in his office in Fifth Avenue, near Sixty-sixth street.

Found "Soul Mate." Her home was just across the way at No. 811 Fifth Avenue. When she went into his office she was immediately recognized by Mr. Hermann as her one and only soul mate, the one which through all the time her soul had been wandering through the universe she had been looking for. This was on Nov. 6, 1906.

And now the contentions of the alleged affinities diverge. Mrs. Stoddard, who left her home and stored her things just after her suit was filed yesterday, says it was a case of recognition of souls all around. She avers that Mr. Hermann wasn't long in admitting the relationship, pure, she says it was, absolutely pure, simply soul love that rose above all flesh.

He kissed her, she says, first on the little hand, then on the lips. But the kisses were not in accord. He wanted me to get a divorce, but I declined unless my husband was willing. He wanted to be free himself, so we could marry. He never, never suggested anything wrong. There was no thought of wrong. We read to each other often and discussed the wandering of souls. That was our amusement.

Got "Such Letters." But something happened, and Mrs. Stoddard went away up to Nova Scotia, where she alleges she got letters from Hermann. Such letters!

They are in the hands of Alvah Burlingame, Jr., the Stoddards' attorney, and it is understood that they are molten with expressions of "soul love." They said to be "Cosmos" and "Cosmos," and they pulsate, it is said, with ethereal aspirations toward a marriage in a mystical beyond where broken pieces of souls find themselves again without aid of hands. The love theme of "Cosmos" was that his soul in the beginning of things had been part of Mrs. Stoddard's.

Recently Borough Park folk began to talk and one day last week the police got in the affair.

It appeared from Mrs. Hermann's story that her husband was ill at bed on Dec. 3, when Mrs. Hermann was talking to him by phone. Mrs. Hermann said he could not leave his bed. As Mrs. Stoddard hung up the telephone, the bookkeeper in Hermann's office said she observed her husband to get her revolver. The bookkeeper telephoned this to Mrs. Hermann. Hermann got out of bed and hid his home to avoid trouble. He was hardly left when Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard appeared. Mrs. Hermann sent for the police. Before they arrived Mrs. Stoddard, convinced that Mr. Hermann was on the premises, led her husband away. When the Stoddards answered the Police Court summons on a charge of alienation, and their lawyer employed counsel to begin legal proceedings.

"Make Good," She Said. The suits of Mrs. Stoddard against Mr. Hermann, which are based on alleged alienation and slanderous statements in which she charged him with alienation of her affections, for an alleged "soul mate," are being handled by Mr. Hermann.

When Mr. Hermann was seen last night at his home he was busy with his family decorating a Christmas tree and the house.

"Look," said Hermann, pointing at his family. "Lots of evidence in that, isn't it? Here I am, my wife and children, improved to-day. Mrs. N. J., but became ill while visiting Mrs. Uman, from pneumonia." The engagement was announced a few weeks ago. Mrs. Barclay's youngest daughter, Miss Clara Wright Barclay, to Jose Victor Onativia, Jr.

FINE CHRISTMAS FOR YANKEE TARS AT PORT OF SPAIN

Greeting from Secretary Metcalf Was Read To-Day to 14,000 Officers and Men.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, B. W. I., Dec. 23.—Christmas greetings were read to-day from Secretary Metcalf to the 14,000 officers and men here aboard the various vessels of the fleet and flotilla. This message, sent by wireless via San Juan, was as follows:

"Evans, Port of Spain, Trinidad: The department extends to you and the officers and men under your command the best wishes for a merry Christmas."

Christmas trees are plentiful and all will dine bountifully on the usual Christmas viands. Preparations have been made for a lively anniversary and those who have a sweet tooth found two supply ships on hand with ten tons of candy aboard.

Last night the city was a blaze of fireworks. The reception of the twenty-seven American war vessels in the Gulf of Paria was cordial. It is the largest array ever seen here.

The reception at St. James's Barracks yesterday afternoon for United States officers was a pleasant affair.

Capt. Acton, Lieut. Henderson and two aids were thrown out of a trap in a runaway by a collision with a wall while returning from the Government House yesterday afternoon, but escaped injury.

Two dinners are to be arranged in honor of Rear Admiral Evans, and Gov. Jackson is to entertain the officers during the races Thursday.

Two thousand of the men of the fleet were granted shore leave yesterday noon and were warmly welcomed by the people. They gave themselves up to sight-seeing and baseball and other games.

The American torpedo-boat flotilla sailed to-day for Para on its way to the Pacific, after a delay of twenty-four hours, incident to the repairs of damage done yesterday, when one of the propellers of the Whipple fouled the anchor chain of the collier Fortune.

CHRISTMAS HUNT FOR MURDERER OF MOTHER AND BOY

Arkansas Planters Look For Desperate Fight in Round-Up of Fugitive.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 23.—Farmers and planters in the neighborhood of Moss, six miles from Conway, in Faulkner County, are spending Christmas in a hunt for Jim Hall, who is alleged to have shot and killed Mrs. Emma Heurness, and her eight-year-old son Christmas Eve. The man is said to be heavily armed, and a desperate fight is expected.

Hall is charged with having gone to the Heurness house on the Moss plantation and throwing scalding water on the mother and child. He is alleged to have fired three shots into her body, killing her instantly. Her little boy, struck by one of the bullets, fell dead across her body.

MUTINY, DEATH AND COLLISION ON 275 DAYS' VOYAGE

Ship, Atlas, After Hoodoo Trip Around Horn, Winds Up in 'Frisco Quarantine.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—The American ship Atlas dropped anchor here last night, 275 days out from Baltimore. It ended a voyage made tragic by a collision off Cape Horn, attended by the sinking of another vessel, a mutiny and the deaths of five persons.

On June 6, at 6 P. M., the Atlas struck the Norwegian bark Viking, Capt. Peterson, bound from Hamburg to Callao. Both were badly damaged by the contact, but the bark fared worst. In the terror of the night thirteen of the crew of the Norwegian bark boarded the American ship, crawling over tangled rigging and dangleing booms, but Capt. Peterson and his wife were not among those who made the dangerous transit, but it was too dark to render aid, though the Atlas stood by during the night, and next morning the Viking had disappeared.

The Atlas put into Rio de Janeiro for repairs, leaving badly. On the way to this port a mutiny took place among the crew over some trouble with the mate, but it was finally quelled.

Before the collision off Cape Horn three of the ship's company met death. On May 23, J. Schumacher and Charles Nolan, seamen, fell in the lifeboat, and were drowned. On June 15 John Hook, sailmaker, died as he was buried at sea.

When the ship arrived yesterday the captain's son and the third officer were ill, and the vessel was ordered into quarantine.

The Atlas had a cargo of coal for the United States Government. The vessel had been 120 days out from Rio and was overdue. R insurance had been ordered at 10 per cent.

The Viking was a new bark of 2,641 tons. Nothing has been heard of her after she began her last voyage until the Atlas brought in the tidings last night.

KILLS TWO NEGROES
WHILE HE IS DYING.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 23.—Wallace Dyal was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by negroes who were fighting among themselves eighteen miles from here. Before he died Dyal shot and killed two of the negroes. The report reached Waycross with a request for the sheriff and deputies, and since that time nothing further has been received.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 23.—Two negroes were burned to death and the third was fatally hurt in a fire which destroyed the general store and apartment house of J. H. Currier early to-day. The dead are Michael Veltrie, aged fifty, who lived over the store, and Joseph, his son, aged thirteen.

Mrs. Veltrie jumped from a ladder and was internally injured.

DUTCH CABINET RESIGNS AFTER BUDGET DEFEAT

Dispute Over Army Estimates Also Likely to Force Dissolution of Parliament.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 23.—The Dutch Cabinet, or Council of Ministers, comprising nine members, by whom the executive authority of the Government is administered, resigned to-day. It is thought that the dissolution of Parliament is likely to follow.

The resignation of the Cabinet is due to the defeat of the army estimates in the Second Chamber of Parliament. The opposition in the discussion of these estimates contended that the efficiency of the Dutch army was not proportionate to its cost.

The Clericals, who are opposed to the Government's plans for universal suffrage, are pleased over the situation caused by the Cabinet's resignation, as they prefer that the expected general election which is to follow should be fought out on the military issue rather than on universal suffrage.

POLICEMAN WINS CHICKEN HANDICAP

Smith Has Lively Time Holding 200 Pound Man and Chasing 8 Fowls.

Patrolman Alexander Smith, of the Oak street station, got more than his usual before breakfast exercise to-day when at daybreak he was compelled to chase and capture eight lively chickens while clinging at the same time to the coat collar of a prisoner.

It takes six minutes to catch one chicken without a handicap, how long does it take to catch eight chickens with one hand while dragging around a two-hundred-pound man with the other and he trying to give you the double-cross at that? This was the arithmetical problem Smith found himself studying after the game.

He says the solution of his early Christmas day trouble came when two citizens ran to his aid, and the chickens, valuable as evidence as well as for fricassee, came to his assistance.

"What ye got in that bag?" was the starter.

"Oh, only a couple of turkeys I won at a raffie," said Dan O'Connor.

"Gutter show me," said Smith, and when the bag was opened out flew eight chickens. Smith grabbed O'Connor and put after the straggled O'Connor had to be urged with persuasive taps of the nightstick to attend a hand.

Later it was ascertained that Wine Lee's chicken stand at No. 86 New Boverly, had been broken into and chickens stolen from crates. O'Connor was held in $500 bail for trial.

MANY ATTEND 3 A. M. MASS.

It Was the First Time St. Andrew's Had Been Lighted by Electricity.

A solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Andrew's Church, in Duane street, at 3 o'clock this morning, at which Father Evers officiated. He was assisted by Father Paillet.

It was the first occasion on which the church was lighted by electricity, the new system of lighting having been recently installed. Prof. O'Donnell directed the special musical programme which followed the high mass.

Father Evers preached on "The Birth of Christ."

The service was well attended by the city and also by many members of the church.

HEAVY ON "COP'S" BACK.

'Thought Man Who Jumped from Window on Him Was R. E. Morse.

"What's your name, R. E. Morse?" Patrolman Holman asked his prisoner.

"No, John J. Thomas. Why?" answered the young man.

"Well, you're a heavy thing I ever drop and get shouldered," said Holman.

The patrolman had heard a noise in a vacant store at Driggs Avenue and Fillmore street, Brooklyn. He struck a match. Thomas jumped on him from a second-story window, they had a hard fight before Thomas surrendered. He was held in the Lee Avenue Court on the charge of stealing lead pipe.

SHOT DEAD AFTER HE KILLED MAN IN DUEL.

MISSEOLA, Mont., Dec. 23.—George Morris, an Austrian, killed one of his countrymen in a knife duel at a railway construction camp near Lothrop last night. Morris then started for Lothrop and met Contractor Walter A. Arnold on the way. He attacked Arnold with a knife and shot him dead. Arnold gave himself up, claiming that he acted in self-defense.

BROWNSON'S CASE A SEALED BOOK AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Nothing Will Be Added to Bare Announcement of Admiral's Resignation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—While President Roosevelt has not given out the letter of resignation of Rear-Admiral Willard H. Brownson, retired, as Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, which has had the handling of the Atlantic fleet's cruise to the Pacific, and while Rear-Admiral Brownson is reticent regarding his reasons for leaving the department at this time, it is generally believed that the Surgeon-General Rixey is the man who caused the breach between the Rear-Admiral and the President.

There is no man in official or unofficial capacity who has the ear of the President more than Dr. Rixey. As family physician for the President, he is on intimate terms with every member of the Roosevelt family. Dr. Rixey has been in attendance upon Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the President's daughter, during her illness from appendicitis, and during this period has seen the President and talked with him daily.

No secret was made of Dr. Rixey's stand just before the sailing of the fleet. The Surgeon-General urged Secretary Metcalf to put medical officers in command of the hospital ships. Secretary Metcalf submitted the suggestion to Rear-Admiral Brownson, and the latter promptly rejected the idea as an absurdity. He said rather curtly that it was impossible to think of putting a medical officer over a navigating officer in command of a vessel.

Rixey Went to President.

Dr. Rixey did not mean to take no for an answer. He hurried to the White House, where he was assured of an audience with the President, and appealed to the Chief Executive. Mr. Roosevelt sided with his family physician, the Surgeon-General of the Navy.

When the decision of the President, taking sides with the Surgeon-General, was communicated to the head of the Bureau of Navigation, the latter hurried to the White House and protested. The discussion became heated and it is said it led to a decided difference of opinion between President Roosevelt and the Rear-Admiral. It is said the differences were such that the Rear-Admiral determined to resign without further parley.

Secretary of the Navy Metcalf and Rear-Admiral Brownson have not been working in harmony. In fact, it is said to-day the resignation has come after a four months fight on the part of Admiral Brownson in the interests of a fighting machine and against the bureau system.

The Admiral, though a bureau man himself for the last eight months and though on coast survey work a long time ago and in charge of the Naval Academy for years, is more than all a naval officer.

He just came from the command of the Asiatic station when made the head of the Navigation Bureau. He has felt almost from the first that the bureau system was a great detriment to the efficiency of the navy. He took this feeling to the President, who at that time was an admirer of the Admiral. He was free in expression of the same before to Secretary Metcalf.

This was the foundation of the trouble. It became acute Monday, after the publication of a statement in which Admiral Brownson was quoted as speaking as follows in the presence of Secretary Metcalf:

"The organization of the navy is bad. I say it before Secretary Metcalf and I have said it to the President. I do not believe in the bureau system, and I think it should be reorganized."

Row with Metcalf.

A hot interview between the Admiral and the Secretary followed the publication of his statement. There was a sharp exchange of opinions and flat disagreement as to how each remembered the conversation in question. The lie was not passed, but the situation became strained. Then came the difference with Dr. Rixey which was the final straw.

Admiral Brownson declined again to-day to discuss the reasons which led up to his resignation. Again he made it manifest that any information bearing on the subject must come from those higher in authority, to whom he referred who asked him to leave the subject. He said it was with the greatest regret that he took leave of the Navy Department in an active capacity after forty-six years of service.

The Admiral's resignation, which was the subject of the letter of resignation, and the reasons for his leaving the active service were followed with the positive statement that nothing beyond the bare announcement of the Admiral's resignation and the selection of his successor would be given out from the quarter either to-day or in the future.

VOLUNTEERS GIVE DINNERS TO NEEDY.

More than 1,500 Christmas dinner packages were distributed by the Volunteers of America to-day at the mission, No. 28 Cooper Square, and at No. 24 West Ninety-ninth street.

Each package contained from six to ten pounds of beef, potatoes, apples, tea, rice, sugar, two or three loaves of bread and two kinds of vegetables.

The distribution was under the direction of Adjutant General Ballington Booth, in the absence of Gen. Booth, who was too ill to take active part in the work of the day.

The greater part of this had been purchased with money collected by the "Santa Claus" on the street. The organization to give nearly one hundred men work for two weeks or more, as well as to give them a good meal, was out of the organization. They were paid for their work, and the work was done in only two instances did these collectors abuse the confidence placed in them.

Dinner packages were also distributed to-day by the Volunteers of Brooklyn, Jersey City and Newark.

WOMAN SEES MAN BEATEN TO DEATH WITH BLACKJACK

Despite Her Cries, Victim Is Pounded on Steps of Tenement.

There was a Christmas celebration in the tenement at No. 24 West Fifty-fifth street last night. John Sweeney, a young truckman who lived with his parents at No. 27 Tenth Avenue, was one of the celebrants who stayed late.

It was half past four o'clock this morning when he worked his way out of the dark hallway to the stoop. Mrs. McGovern, who has rooms on the ground floor front, heard him fumbling with the latch. Then she heard the sounds of a sudden mix-up and cries and groans and curses.

She ran to her door. On the steps Sweeney was struggling with another man. Before she could make an outcry, the second man swung a blackjack and brought it down on Sweeney's head with a force that dropped the truckman like a pole-axed ox.

Mrs. McGovern cried out to the stranger not to be murdering the boy, but he paid no attention to her. She called over the fence man, searched his pockets, favored her with a curse and lurched unsteadily away.

The woman's cries brought her boarder, George Lemmon, who telephoned to the West Forty-seventh street station. The woman came for assistance, but she appeared to be crushed in, until an ambulance came from Roosevelt Hospital.

Policeman Barron was the first to arrive. He saw a man making off down Tenth Avenue at a good clip, and, after a chase of four blocks, overhauled the fugitive. The prisoner, John McGovern, was taken to the West Forty-second street station.

He admitted, according to Barron, that he had had trouble with a man up the street.

Sweeney never got his senses back. He died at noon in the hospital. McGovern, who had been held without bail by Magistrate Hermann in the West Side Police Court, was turned over to the Coroner.

DROPS DEAD IN CHURCH AT CHRISTMAS SERVICE.

Elias T. Manee, Belonging to Old Staten Island Family, Victim of Heart Failure.

Elias T. Manee, seventy-eight years old, belonging to one of Staten Island's oldest families, and one of the most prosperous oyster growers about New York, died suddenly to-day in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, Amboy Road and Main street, Tottenville. Heart failure was the cause of death.

Manee left his home shortly before 10 o'clock to attend Christmas services at the church in which he has worshipped fifty years. The walk of more than a mile is thought to have exhausted the aged man and he died about half an hour after the man's death, which occurred in the presence of several hundred churchgoers.
